DUTCH APPLE DINNER THEATRE FEEDS THE NEED FOR FUN WITH LITTLE SHOP OF HORRORS

The Cult Classic Musical Blooms February 13 – March 21

LANCASTER, PA. January 20, 2026 – something is growing at Dutch Apple Dinner Theatre...and it's hungry. From February 13 through March 21, the wildly entertaining musical comedy Little Shop of Horrors is unleashed — a devilishly fun tale packed with doo-wop, dark humor, and one very demanding houseplant.

Set on skid row and bursting with unforgettable songs like “Suddenly, Seymour,” “Dentist!” and “Feed Me,” Little Shop of Horrors follows mild-mannered florist Seymour and his not-so-ordinary plant, Audrey II, whose appetite for fame—and flesh—quickly spirals out of control. What starts as a chance at love and success soon turns into a hilariously outrageous saga.

Dutch Apple brings its signature dinner-and-a-show experience to this cult classic, serving up a delicious meal before audiences sit back for a musical that's equal parts comedy, rock concert, and monster movie. With eye-popping visuals, killer choreography, and a cast that chews the scenery (hopefully not the audience), Little Shop of Horrors is a must-see event this winter.

“This show is a blast—funny, fast-paced, and just the right amount of twisted,” said Lauren Sobon, Artistic Producer at Dutch Apple. “It’s a fan favorite for a reason, and we can’t wait to let audiences experience it Dutch Apple-style.”

Perfect for date nights, groups, and theatre lovers looking for something a little offbeat, Little Shop of Horrors proves that at Dutch Apple, dinner is just the beginning.

But fair warning... whatever you do, don't feed the plants.

Performances run February 13 – March 21, 2026.
